

AHRN Disclaimer

The Asian Harm Reduction Network (AHRN) publicises and circulates reproduced documents to its users. AHRN does not necessarily endorse or condone the use of certain words or phrases contained within these documents. In the spirit of proper citation, AHRN news digest and website may therefore contain certain terms that some members might find offensive or counterproductive. We apologize for such language and we encourage you to take up the issue with the initial publisher or author. Furthermore, AHRN is not in a position to verify the veracity of each article's content. AHRN encourages you to send in your comments regarding the content of articles and AHRN will be pleased to communicate those comments to all our readers. If you find inaccuracies, please point them out to the AHRN team and we will issue corrections promptly.

The contents of this document and any attachments may be confidential and legally privileged. All information herein provided is for the sole use of AHRN. Under no circumstances will this information be distributed or made available to third parties. We recognize the right to privacy and therefore consider our subscriber's information confidential and legally privileged. To unsubscribe, send a blank email with subject "UNSUBSCRIBE" to info@ahrn.net.